In fulfilling this commitment, the Company will sponsor policies, programs, training, and compliance activities and will maintain a safe and healthy work environment as indicated by legislative requirements and acceptable industry standards. Further, Ansell will continually strive for excellence in the prevention of incidents that could result in personal injury or illness, fire, property damage, and other unacceptable losses.

Loss prevention is the direct responsibility of managers, employees, and contractors alike. Each manager shall make safety and loss control an objective equal to other business objectives. Each employee and others on-site shall comply with all safety and loss control procedures and practices. All employees must be constantly alert to the fact that their job is to safely produce a quality product at a competitive cost.
